

With freckles that removed
Speckles from my vision
I soon enough swung into a mission
My morale went from zero to sea breeze bold.
Beauty that gave me ginger
Left me like I was drunk in ale
I said to her;
You look like a twilight
Standing out like a starlight
They say change is constant
But I pray your freckles never sway.
She spoke in hushed tones
A funny rose I envisioned up close
Said you leave me wanting more
Like Canadians love for ginger ale.
I took sniff off her breathe
She took a whiff of the beachy rose
I puff words that were true;
Darling your scent is so soothing
You smell of sea breeze cologne.
And you make me see breeze bold.

Photography by Kester Kanayo

Poetry by Cirphrank IWrite PoeticAli

 This content has been Digiproved © 2019